SCHEDULE 63	)

I. INTRODUCTION

Avista Corporation doing business as Avista Utilities (hereinafter Avista or Company), at 1411 East Mission Avenue, Spokane, Washington, respectfully requests that the Commission approve the enclosed revisions to the Company's tariff Schedule 62, "Cogeneration and Small Power Production Schedule."

The three areas of revisions are: 1) new tariff language on interconnection standards for net-metered projects less than 25 kilowatts (KW), 2) new and updated definitions for small power projects, and 3) housekeeping changes to clarify verbiage. The addition of Schedule 63 includes the net metering provisions previously contained in Schedule 62.

II. PROPOSED REVISIONS

The first area of revision adds “Interconnection Standards” to the Company’s “Rules and Regulations” tariff sheet 70-r through 70-x, describing general conditions, requirements and technical specifications for the safe and reliable operation of interconnected customer-owned generating facilities. This tariff language will provide standard guidelines for interconnection as more customers opt for, or consider the addition of, self-owned generation. Included in the Company’s proposed revisions is information on general conditions such as applications and agreements, unauthorized connections, dedicated distribution transformer, metering, labeling, insurance and liability, future modification or expansion, customer-owned equipment protection, and interconnection costs. Also included are technical specifications and interconnection requirements. The Company believes that these interconnection

1 standards are “industry standards” and desires to have these included in its tariffs as
2 customers express more interest in self-owned generation.

3
4 Second, the Company has made several additions to the “Definitions” section to
5 support tariff schedule 62. These additions include the definitions for a Market Energy Rate
6 and a Daily Shape Adjustment. The Daily Shape Adjustment is a new addition added to
7 better reflect the value of the power during different times of the day. Other additions
8 include:

9 Facility, In-Service Date, Interconnection Service Agreement, Network Distribution
10 System, Point of Common Coupling, Qualifying Facility, and Seasonal Factors.

11
12 Several administrative changes have been made to reflect the change in applicability
13 of Schedule 62 to no more than 10 average megawatts and to clarify and/or delete verbiage
14 under “Power Rates” to clarify the “Non-firm Energy Rate” and the applicability of the 15 Seasonal and Daily Shape adjustments.

16 Lastly, the Company has removed the “Net Metering Option” from Schedule 62 and
17 adds this to a new Schedule 63 to be consistent with changes made to the Company’s
18 Washington tariff.

19 III. REQUEST FOR APPROVAL

20 Avista, therefore, respectfully requests approval of the “Revisions to the Company’s
21 Tariff Schedule 62 “Cogeneration and Small Power Production Schedule” and Tariff

1 Schedule 70 "Rules and Regulations" and the addition of a new Tariff Schedule 63 "Net
2 Metering Option."
