Please describe your comment briefly:

Dear IPUC,
I have looked at Case No. GNR-E-10-04 and believe that it is just an excuse for the power companies to avoid taking anymore wind energy into their grid. PURPA projects are protected by US Law and should be allowed to be permitted. If the avoided cost is lowered, then why are not the consumer rates for electricity going down? In fact, rates are still going higher. The PURPA program is great for the family farms in providing them additional income to keep the farm from being sold out.

Sincerely,

Larry Zirker
