Comment_description: We feel that the rate payers should not be charged more so Idaho Power can recover the costs they sustained in 2001 due to the Buyback program they requested. They requested this program in 2001 to curb the energy costs because of the projects of low water in the Snake River and the enery market at that time. They requested this program and therefore they have to take the consequences of that request. All businesses have to take responsibility for what they decide. If any other type of business makes a decision for a good reason and then loses money they do not get to charge their customers or clients for it. They would probably lose customers/clients and then not have a business. They don't have the same luxury as Idaho Power. Idaho Power is our only electric company. We should not just have to take this rate hike just because we can't get electricity from another power company. We don't have the choice to leave and go elsewhere for this type of service. We believe they should just absorb the cost.

Comment_description: Comment: Why should we (I) have to pay for a mistake in judgement by the CEO and Board of Directors of Idaho Power? If I make a mistake in judgement, I alone am responsible for the results and no body else. Perhaps i could bill Idaho power if I leave a light burning when I should not have? This of course would be unthinkable & so is Idaho Power's request.

Comment_description: IPUC
CASE IPC-E-01-34

As I understand it, a Judge (a lawyer not a CPA) wants us to pay 74M to IP for the $400 a acre they paid the farmers not to water, when we could have bought the farm for $50/A. That was a poor business decision. Why didn't the IPUC take that to a higher court? That power was sold to California at a huge profit, so much so that they gave the highest paid CEO a 5M bonus. Now a lawyer (Judge) wants us to pay them 12M more for the power they sold to California, NO WAY!
This indicates that the IPUC did not have good representation.
There for we should go back to court on the 74M and the 12M.

Comment_description: It appears that failing to restrain Idaho Power from asking for the $74M to begin with, the PUC is now stuck, after more expenses in litigation, with allowing I.P. to charge the ratepayers the additional $12M. Obviously, I didn't believe in the original buy-back formula. All I can say, is p-l-e-a-s-e do as much as you can in your accounting to ensure the $12M is a legitimate figure! We ratepayers are stuck either way, aren't we?! Perhaps someday I.P. will give regular folks a break and charge the farmers more!

Comment description: I have a comment on this Idaho Power case. Bravo to you for sidestepping the PUC! Where there's a will there's a way. As far as collecting the money you think you lost. Why? A bad investment is just that. Most business never get to recover that. The PUC was generous. Lost revenue? It was lost anyway. Maybe you should just go to those farmers with hat in hand and tell them the program wasn't such a good idea and you'd like your money back.

Comment_description: Idaho Power should not be allowed to try to recoup any of the money that they "lost" in the 2001 irrigation fiasco. At that time, Idaho Power was gambling that they could sell it at the super escalated power rates that were hammering California. It is not the fault of the irrigation users that before Idaho Power could start selling it down in California, the lid blew off of things and electricity costs fell back to near norm in California.

Irrigators are being asked technically to pick up Idaho Powers\'s gambling loses and frankly, that stinks! Idaho Power constantly is dreaming up some pretext to hammer users with increases of one type or another and the line needs to be drawn in the sand that this has got to stop!

Comment_description: I wish we could all recieve something for nothing like large companies do just because our name is Idaho Power. Idaho Power did not sell the power so why are they entitled to compensation for something that they might of received if things had been different.

If the dog hadn't of stopped to rest he might have caught the rabbit. Do we give the dog the rabbit anyway? We could always get some new judges in the Supreme Court. For most of us there is no free lunch. Thank you.
