Comment_description: I commented earlier that I am not opposed to the wind farms. I made that comment because I felt that existing BLM and National Monument lands in the Bell Rapids area would keep the windmills far enough to the west of the rim that they would not be visible from the City of Hagerman. After reviewing the map on your site I am now concerned about the Thousand Springs Wind Farm because it appears to be very close to the rim. If BLM lands are not involved then it appears to me that there is a discrepancy between the BLM map and the map on your website. I would like to see a map that depicts the areas from which the Thousand Springs site and Oregon Trail site windmills can be seen. I am still not necessarily opposed to the projects, however, I would like to understand the expected impacts and determine what if any mitigation opportunities may be considered.
