Please describe your comment briefly:

We encourage the PUC to implement the program proposed by the Idaho Energy Education Project with the $500,000 rate-payers have earned in sulfur dioxide offsets. We further encourage you to establish a rate-payer/citizen oversight committee to help establish good, sound practices in providing energy education to teachers and students, including forward thinking curriculum development that will include study of all forms of energy. The Idaho Energy Education Project's track record in 11 schools so far is exemplary. The best place to begin to teach young people the importance of developing sustainable energy sources and to use all forms of energy efficiently and wisely is in elementary school.
