Please describe your comment briefly:

As a result of the new tiered rate structure, my electric bill will already increase by 10% annually. I have sent separate comments on the unfairness of the tiered rate structure itself, and I have sent data, calculations and additional comments to Mr. Curtis Thaden via e-mail. For this case, I would like to focus on the point that the PCA increase of 11.4% will take my annual increase to 21.4%. I believe that 21.4% is well beyond what any resident should be expected to bear on a year over year basis. I believe the PCA increase should be delayed until the tiered rate structure can be redefined to be fairly applied, and the compounding effect mitigated.

Sincerely, Kevin Ryan
