Please describe your comment briefly:

I fully support the Dynamis project.

Times have changed since the deal was struck with Fortistar Energy; Idaho Power buys and sells power on the grid daily. The person writing to complain has no concept on how energy is priced, consumed, etc. I have seen the prototype of the Dynamis burner and it works. Idaho's low electrical rates will remain low, even with Dynamis. Dynamis is going to provide a 'flexible' stream of power which is more expensive to purchase and gives Idaho Power the ability to provide power when users want it. That has a price.

I'm amazed how people distort facts or don't even know the facts before they begin to complain.

This project is a win-win for the County and electric users.
