Please describe your comment briefly:

I strongly feel that an 8% increase is inappropriate at this time. Our economy is struggling along with every family at this time to just make ends meet, the majority are slipping further in the hole of debt. Perhaps when paychecks are raised more than 2% and you were considered 'lucky' to get that raise a rise in our utility bills could be handled without having to make a trade off on which bill will be paid this month. I am very appreciative of having the electricity available and realize a rate hike is probably overdue, however, timing is everything.
