The comments here have been very well presented. We are pleased to see how much research has been done on this rate hike. Not to repeat all the facts, but the two items that really stick out here are: the percent of increase asked for.. and services rendered.

We no longer have gardens to water since our rates have gone up so high. We are very cautious with our water usage, also because we notice a dip in pressure during 'high demand' times. Which was not a problem until a second subdivision was put on our water system.

They are operating at a loss?? Something is fishy there. Do the math for the number of homes, and even averaging out monthly use, there is no way..The pump has been out numerous times, and is INSURED. A lawsuit is pending-or may have been resolved among pump owners, the power company, and or drilling outfit?

Yes, we are depending on your discerning the facts, and a fair decision. But we also have to live here within our means. We cant state firmly enough that it would be even a greater burden on fixed income seniors, and the working families of the neighborhood.

Thank you for your time.
