<sup>1</sup> The Commission’s rules distinguish a “technical hearing” from a “customer hearing.” A “technical hearing” is a public hearing at which the Company, Commission Staff, and intervening parties present witnesses and their prepared testimony and exhibits. A “customer hearing” is a public hearing at which customers, public officials, and persons who are not related to parties may testify. Unless otherwise ordered, parties to the case are not allowed to present evidence at the “customer hearing.” See Commission Rule 241.04, IDAPA 31.01.01.241.04. In this case, the Commission has set a “customer hearing” only.
