Comment_description: About 72,000 dollar cost to pay for level pay. I feel this is business decision not justieable costs of providing water to customers and we should not have to pay. If level pay is implemented the additional monies in United Water accounts {collecting interest would soon cover any associated costs. Thank You Wally Stetson

Comment_description: Hello,

I am very much opposed to the water users 'level pay' plan. It is simply a way for those who waste enourmous amounts of water on unneeded lanscaping to be extended a form of credit. It will only make it less painful to waste water, and encourage more waste.

Comment_description: We would like to keep the billing just as it is, except for the summer rates, which we feel is too high. They are penalizing us for wanting to have a nice yard and garden. I do not think it increases their cost, but does encourage people to water more carefully. It would be nice if they could lower it.

Comment_description: The United Water stands to make money off this ability or recoup more than usual, because with level pay, people can more easily afford the payment. So reimbursing them to help collect payments is part of doing business or just don't do it. Likewise many businesses add service for thier customers with no additional cost to customer.

In my competitive business I do it all the time.
Sincerely, Raylene Kinyon
