Comment: First I'd like to go on record by stating that I don't think it's in Idaho's best interest to have much of it's water controlled by a huge multinational corporation based in another country. United Water already inflates our seasonal water charges during the summer months by an additional .37 per CCF. I'm told this is designed to encourage water conservation. What happens with those additional funds? I also pay a customer charge of $20.80 six times a year. I'd like to know how much money United Water has collected in this fund, from all it's customers, since January of 2012?
